One Killed, Seven Injured In Accident Near Unity

Freedom, Pa., Man Victim of 3-Vehicle Crash

3 Other Persons Hurt In Rash of District Mishaps

A Freedom, Pa., youth, killed Sunday in a three-vehicle crash near Unity, was one of at least 13 persons who perished on Ohio roads over the weekend, ranked as one of the bloodiest in the last seven weeks.

Not since the weekend of Dec. 2 have more than 11 persons died until the past weekend.

First County Fatality

Killed instantly in the wreck Sunday morning at 12:30 on Route 14, four miles east of Route 7, was Reed C. Puffinburger, 22, of RD 1, Freedom, Pa. He was the county's first traffic fatality of 1963 following a death-free period of 19 days.

Columbiana County Coroner William A. Kolozsi, after an examination at Salem City Hospital, ruled that Puffinburger, who was pinned in the wreckage, died of multiple injuries including a crushed skull and head, crushed chest and compound fractures.

Seven Others Hurt

Seven other persons, including three children were hurt, though not seriously, in the near head-on crash of Puffinburger's car with a steel truck and subsequent collision of the dying man's car with a third auto.

The injured, all taken to Salem City Hospital, were:

Joseph C. Fabrizio, 22, of RD 1, Freedom, a passenger in the death car, possible head injury, fractured wrist and possible internal injuries.

John J. Speziale, 29, of Youngstown, the truck driver, lacerations of scalp and possible chest and shoulder injuries.

Speziale's nephew, Sam, 14, of Youngstown, abrasions of forehead and face and injured left wrist.

James G. Cable, 38, of New Galilee, Pa., driver of the second car, lacerations of hands and injury of left shoulder.

Mrs. Madeline Lou Cable, 26, James' wife, lacerations of right knee.

The Cable's two children, James R., 7, face scratches, and Debra, 4, cuts on forehead.

Fabrizio and the older Speziale are in fair condition at City Hospital. The others were treated and released.

Attempting To Pass

The Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol reported Puffinburger was traveling east just west of Unity and attempted to pass Cable's eastbound car. He was unable to return to his lane in time and struck the tractor-trailer rig almost head-on.

The impact caused Puffinburger's auto to veer toward the right and strike the Cable auto. Both cars sped out of control, into the ditch but the trucker kept his rig on the pavement, the patrol said. The pavement was wet when the mishap occurred on the slight curve.

Three Others Hurt

In six other weekend accidents investigated by the Lisbon post, three district persons were injured.

Ernest A. Gerber, 67, of RD 2, Salem, and Clifford W. Gerren, 48, of 406 N. Union St. Alliance, were treated at Alliance City Hospital and released after their autos collided Saturday at 3:10 p.m. on Route 62, about five miles east of Alliance. Gerber was cut on the nose and Gerren received lacerations of the right hand and left knee.

Gerber, traveling west, made a left turn in front of the eastbound Gerren vehicle, the patrol said. Gerber was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

A young Sebring woman was slightly injured in another mishap on Route 62 Saturday at 6:50 p.m., about four miles east of the Stark County Line.

The victim, Judith Cole, 18, of 413 E. Ohio Ave., had abrasions of the upper leg after her car was struck in the rear by one operated by John F. Gilbert, 45, of RD 1, Salem.

The patrol said Miss Cole's car

Agrees To 3 On-Cite Inspections

Khrushchev Yields To West Demands On A-Test Checks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The test ban issue "can be continued to a successful conclusion." U.S. officials said Khrushchev's policy reversal could lead to a real breakthrough in the test ban negotiations. Whether it does will depend on whether Khrushchev is willing to increase the number of on-site inspections to double or triple the total he told Kennedy he would agree to at once—that is, two or three a year. The United States is asking for eight or 10.

Representatives of the three nuclear powers will reopen negotiations in a meeting here Tuesday afternoon.

The Kennedy-Khrushchev exchange covers three letters—one from Khrushchev Dec. 1, Kennedy's reply of Dec. 28, and a second Khrushchev message on Jan. 7.

Khrushchev reminded the President that he had agreed during the Cuban crisis to deal with the nuclear test problem at some later time. He said they had passed through the period of "utmost acuteness and tension" over Cuba.

Union Officials Agree To Halt Dock Strike

OK Special Board's Settlement Proposal; Owners Delay Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for striking longshoremen have accepted a presidential board's proposals to end the month long, Maine-to-Texas dock tie-up. Ship owners deferred action until Tuesday.

The board's proposal for a 39-cent-an-hour package increase over two years—including 24 cents in wage boosts—was accepted Sunday night by negotiators for union longshoremen who work in ports from Norfolk, Va., northward.

A union spokesman said that even if ship owners and stevedoring companies accept the proposal the strike could not be considered over until dockworkers along the Southeast and Gulf coasts get the same offer.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of a mediation board appointed by President Kennedy, observed that the New York pact traditionally sets the pattern for other ports which sign separate contracts.

Federal mediators meet here again today with union and management representatives from South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports. The representatives will return to their home ports for full dress negotiations.

The strike by 60,000 longshoremen has paralyzed most East and Gulf Coast shipping for 30 days. It has idled some 20,000 other workers, including about 10,000 truck drivers in the New York area.

Because more than 550 ships are stalled with no one to load or unload cargo, an estimated 20,000 railroad boxcars are packed up along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Losses due to the strike are nearing the $600-million mark. The board's package proposal was 11 cents less than the longshoremen had asked and 17 cents more than the industry had offered.

Alexander P. Chopin, chief negotiator for the shipping association, said the recommended settlement represented "a $25-million package for the port of New York alone—which is very high."

The mediation board recommended a 15-cent hourly wage boost retroactive to last Oct. 1, when the old contract ran out, and another 9-cent hourly boost next Oct. 1. The longshoremen's basic pay averaged $3.02 an hour before the strike.

President Cites Ensuing Rise In Buying Power

Says Reduction Needed To Guard Against Recession

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told Congress today that cutting taxes, despite a huge deficit, is "the best way open to us to increase revenues."

Kennedy devoted the annual economic report, last of his three major messages to the new Congress, to allaying the fears of those legislators who called his fiscal program — the heaviest spending and biggest tax cut in history — "incredible," "a mistake," and "too big." In the process he revealed a few more details of the tax program he will send to Congress next Thursday.

If the country should slide into recession this year through failure to reduce taxes, the President said, the prospective $11-billion deficit would worsen and perhaps "break all peacetime deficit records."

By contrast, Kennedy predicted, the planned $13.5-billion tax reduction will add $8.5 billion a year to families' income, boost output of consumer items by $16 billion, increase profits, and encourage business investment.

He promised: "As the economy returns to full employment, the budget will return to constructive balance."

While urging tax reduction as insurance against recession, Kennedy did not predict a slump. On the contrary, he forecast "moderate expansion" in 1963 to a record $378 billion of national output, up 4½ per cent from last year.

Already, he reported, the recovery from the depth of recession 22 months ago has halted the postwar trend of ever more frequent recessions. But the gains are "frustratingly" short of the strides that are needed, he said.

The message went on: "I do not expect a fifth postwar recession to interrupt our progress in 1963."

"It is not the fear of recession but the fact of five years of excessive unemployment, unused capacity and slack profits—and the consequent hobbling of our growth rate—that constitutes the urgent case for tax reduction and reform."

The $13.5 billion in proposed tax cuts, partly offset by $3.5 billion of revenue-raising revisions, would go into partial effect on July 1, Kennedy said.

Individual income tax liabilities would be reduced by $6 billion a year, most of which "would translate immediately into greater take-home pay" through lower tax withholding on paychecks. More cuts would come in 1964 and 1965, to a total of well over $8 billion.

More than $7 billion of this would be poured into purchases of new goods and services, Kennedy said, and the spending stream would be swollen as corporations — also beneficiaries of tax relief — increase dividend payments. The rising demand would call for greater output and more factory hiring—and hence, he said, more income and still more spending.

Special tax relief for small businesses would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963, he disclosed. This would be a full year ahead of the start of the basic corporate tax rate reductions from 52 per cent to 47 per cent, a $2.5-billion cut. Corporations now pay 30 per cent on their first $25,000 of income plus an additional 22 per cent on the rest for a total of 52 per cent. Kennedy said that, as of the start of this year, the rate on the first $25,000 would be

Dems Oppose Acquisition of Post Office

The first formal, organized opposition to acquisition by the Salem City Board of Education of the old Post Office has been filed with Board President O. A. Naragon by the Salem Area Democratic Central Committee.

A resolution, signed by president James Aldom, Democratic councilman, and secretary Ida F. Austin, clerk of Northwest County Court, places the Democratic group on record as against the acquisition of the government property for school purposes.

The proposed move by school administrators and the board has stirred considerable rumblings among some residents, but the Democrats' stand is the first public announcement of opposition.

The Democratic group says it is opposed to the acquisition "whether it (the building) could be obtained free of charge or for a price."

"It is recommended that the board forego any opportunity they may have to acquire the building," the statement declared.

Among reasons the Democratic group feels the acquisition would be impractical is the cost involved in remodeling, including the revamping or replacement of

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: My biggest complaint about mens' stretch socks and children's crew socks was that after several washings the elastic tops of these socks would stretch out of shape while the rest of the sock would still be in good condition.

My solution was elastic thread that I bought at my five and dime store. It comes in various colors and also white.

I sewed three or four rows of small stitches around the top of the sock in matching colors on my sewing machine. Presto! They looked fine and the elastic thread hardly shows at all.

MRS. S. COHEN.

DEAR HELOISE: I remove static electricity from my slips and under garments by dampening my hands with warm water after I darn the garment and then stroking the garments downward with my damp hands in several places.

Also, a good shaking after removing the garments from the dryer will eliminate a lot of the static.

It's true. Shaking garments when removing them from the dryer does away with lots of static electricity.

We also know that moisture, when added in a room whether by vaporizer methods or just boiling a pan of water on a heater... keeps the shock down when walking across a rug and touching some object in the room.

So... just why wouldn't wetting your hands and running them down a nylon slip etc., do the same job?

Great idea and thanks a million times, Miss Secretary HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: A time-saving idea is the use of colored pencil or crayon, which I keep handy on my telephone stand.

When reading magazines and newspapers, I check the corner of the page with my colored pencil if I see an article that I would like to save. Then... when the newspaper or magazine has made the rounds of the family, I flip through it, and my colored check marks show up immediately. It saves hours of rereading and hunting for articles I want to clip.

BEVERL VEATCH.

DEAR HELOISE: Perhaps someone has the answer to a question that continues to "bug" me! That is—how to have crisp and icy salad greens at home like those most restaurants serve.

I have tried everything including putting them in a plastic bag. I have washed and drained greens in the salad bowl with dampened paper toweling over them and place in the refrigerator and so forth. Perhaps it comes down to the restaurant's super-refrigeration facilities. Yes? I would appreciate any answer on how to make salad greens crisp and lettuce crunchy and delightful.

MRS. J. M. SIEBERT.

DEAR FOLKS (I am sure some of you are sitting home today have the answer to this problem. If by chance, you can tell not only this woman—but 25 million others—how to make their lettuce crisp, please send it to us, we need it.

Letters do not have to be signed to appear but we would appreciate ever so much if you put either your initials or name so that we can give you full credit. If you have an answer to this, you deserve it.

Send your problems, answers and "out-lets" to Heloise.

April 15 Is Deadline Date For Filing '62 Income Tax Returns

EDITOR'S NOTE — The income tax filing deadline is here again. Here is the first of a series of five articles designed to make the taxpayer's chore easier. This one tells you must file, forms to use and how to figure deductions.

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Midnight Monday, April 15, is the deadline for your 1962 income tax return. Report only taxable income, not the non-taxable kind like Social Security payments. Examples of both kinds are given below.

Changes in the law on 1962 individual income are very few and won't affect most people.

You must file a return—to get a refund—if your income was too low to be taxable but tax was withheld from it.

You must file a return, even though you owe no tax, if:

1. You were under 65 and had taxable income of $600 or more. This includes children, parents are responsible for them.

2. You were 65 by Jan. 1, 1963, and had taxable income of $1,200 or more.

A self-employed person must pay a Social Security tax of 4.7 per cent on self-employment income from $400 to $4,800. This is in addition to whatever regular tax he pays, like everyone else, on taxable income over $600.

A man over 65 must pay this Social Security tax on self-employment income even though he is drawing Social Security payments.

But there are limits on how much income such a person can have and still receive Social Security payments. This can get complicated. If you have doubts about your case, contact your nearest Social Security office.

Be sure (1) you enclose with your return all the W-2 withholding statements from your employer or employers; (2) you list your Social Security number on your return. There is a $5 penalty for failing to list your number.

Many special questions are answered in the 14-page instruction sheet which the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) sends taxpayers. It includes both a tax table and a schedule for figuring your own tax.

Still better, though it costs 40 cents, is the 144-page instruction booklet—"Your Federal Income Tax"—put out by the IRS and sold by your district director of internal revenue.

Organizations paying interest or dividends of $10 or more—starting Jan. 1, 1963—will report these payments to IRS. Through this IRS can check 1962 returns to catch those who didn't report dividend or interest income received in 1962.

There are two tax forms for making returns: 1040 and 1040A. Anyone, no matter how big or little his income, can use Form 1040. Most people will use Form 1040A—A punchcard—because it's simpler, if they meet the requirements.

You can use it only if:

1. Your income was under $10,

000 and was entirely in wages from which tax was withheld, plus not more than $200 in dividends, interest or wages from which tax was not withheld.

2. You accept the standard deduction of 10 per cent—up to a limit of $1,000—allowed people using form 1040A without itemizing.

Otherwise, you must use form 1040. On this one, if your deductions actually exceed 10 per cent of your taxable income, you can claim them in full but must itemize to do so.

If you use form 1040A, but your income was under $5,000, you can find your tax in the tax table or let the IRS collector figure it for you. He'll send you a bill for any tax still owed or send you a refund if you're entitled to it.

In this case the 10 per cent deduction is already allowed for in the tax table. You don't have to claim it.

If you use form 1040A, but your income was $5,000 or more but under $10,000, you figure your own tax and take, without itemizing, a 10 per cent deduction for personal expenses up to a limit of $1,000.

Each exemption you can legitimately claim means $600 knocked off your income before what's left is taxable. Everyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself, plus $600 for each dependent.

If your wife had no income, you can file jointly with her, or you can file your own return. In both cases you claim a $600 exemption for her and one for yourself.

But married couples usually save money filing a joint return, whether or not the wife had income, because the tax is split for them when they file this way.

If your wife had income, you can not claim an exemption for her unless she files jointly with you. If she does file jointly with you, each of you claims a $600 exemption on the same return.

When the wife had income but files her own return, she claims her own $600 exemption on her return and you claim your exemption on your return.

Next: Forms to use.

Bowling Green U. Appoints President

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Bowling Green State University has selected as its sixth president Dr. William Travers Jerome III, present dean of Syracuse University's College of Business Administration.

Charles Schwyn of Cygnet confirmed the choice of Jerome, subject to formal approval at the BGSU board of trustees meeting Friday.

Jerome, 43, is married and the father of four children. He won out over 13 other applicants for the $25,000-a-year post.

A presidential selection committee set up by the board selected Jerome to succeed Dr. Ralph Harshman effective September 1. Harshman, president for a little over a year since succeeding Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, is expected to retire at the end of August.

Jerome is a magna cum laude 1941 graduate of Colgate University. He earned a master's degree in business administration and a doctor of commercial science degree at Harvard University.

Between his studies at Harvard, he was assistant to the president of Middlebury (Vt.) College for four years. He became dean of business school at Syracuse in 1958, five years after joining the university faculty.

GET SABIN VACCINE

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—About 70 per cent of Mercer County's population turned out Sunday to receive Type I Sabin polio vaccine despite icy highways and sub-freezing temperatures.

Health officials said 20,987 persons received the oral vaccine at schools and other distribution centers. Plans for distribution of Types II and III will be announced later, officials said.

This and That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Although American women are getting taller and heavier, there's still a big selection for those men who like a small girl. Some 15 million women are only five feet tall—or less.

The Chinese always have been among the world's greatest lovers of good food. In former times a top-ranking chef sometimes was rewarded by being elevated to the aristocracy.

Forgotten pets: America's cat population is estimated by the American Feline Association at 21 million—of which 10½ million are homeless, uncared for strays. Incidentally, a good hunting cat has been known to destroy as many as 13 rats in a single night.

It pays to advertise: Oldtime Mennonite families painted their front door blue to let the world know they still had a marriageable daughter at home.

Health fact: Our drug stores fill more than 642 million prescriptions a year, or about 3½ for each person.

Our quotable notables: "Lack of money is the root of all evil!"—George Bernard Shaw.

Cultural progress: The United States now has 31 million amateur musicians, more than twice the number of only 10 years ago.

Dogs bite 600,000-plus people annually in this country, and public health officials say 18 per cent of the bites could be prevented if parents wouldn't give a dog to children under 6 years old. Side-light: Norway hasn't had a case of rabies in man or animal since 1803. No case has ever been recorded in New Zealand.

Cover-up: A faculty directive to young nurses at Iowa Methodist Hospital read: "The uniform skirt may not be shorter than two inches below the popliteal space." That's physician talk for the back of the knee joint, folks.

Has the weather been too humid for you lately? You can always get relief by going to Wadi Haifa in the Sudan in Africa. Hasn't rained there in 19 years.

Outdoor stenography: If you need a letter written in Istanbul, a street corner scribe will write or type it while you wait. Open-air scribing in Turkey dates back to ancient times.

Worst wisecrack of the week: Actor Lore ("Fantasticks") Noto claims you can always spot a newlywed in a supermarket. She's the one who tries to squeeze a can of soup to see if it's fresh.

Language lore: H. L. Mencken used to point out the difference between the English and American languages by comparing a sign in the British museum with one in a U.S. railroad washroom. One said, "These basins are for casual ablutions only." The other said, "Don't spit—remember the Johnstown flood!"

Shooting Down the Balloon

For all practical purposes, the Kennedy administration is proposing a $100 million budget for the year beginning next July 1. This is the figure that is making a special dent on the people's consciousness of the ever-mounting cost of Big Government.

It blots out the fact the Kennedy administration expects to spend almost that much in the year ending his coming June 30—$94,311,000,000 compared with $98,802,000,000 next year.

Approximate figures representing government money-handling don't mean much any more but the current budget started out to be $92,537,000,000 one year ago and now has been revised to $94,311,000,000. It is a $100 billion budget too far as its relative size is concerned.

If it were scientifically adjusted to represent what actually has been happening in big government it might be relatively larger than the one proposed for the coming year.

THE STAGGERING cost of big government is home to roost. Wage earners realized that this month when big government began to take another $2 billion bite out of their pay checks for Social Security taxes.

Taxpayers realized it with a shock when they learned that the Kennedy administration, which never has batted an eye over ever-growing expenditures, is deeply concerned about the crippling effect of ever-heavier taxes.

The Kennedy people are proposing a scheme to have their cake and eat it too—tax reductions to stimulate accumulations of private capital and spur buying power in the hope of beefing up the economy and thereby getting more revenue out of lower rates.

Their theory is interesting. Many experts think it is sound. It once was put into practice on the recommendation of Andrew W. Mellon—when he was secretary of the treasury in the early '20s and it helped set off a boom in that decade.

But it is a form of whistling in the dark as the United States walks into an era of $100-billion-plus budgets without knowing how it is going to raise the money to support an ever-accelerating rate of spending.

THE PROBLEM is not essentially money at all. Money difficulties are the result of a tougher problem that no one has been able to solve and few have been willing to tackle.

It is the problem of how to curtail demands for an ever-broadening scale of government operation. It is the problem of how to keep Big Government from engulfing its people and smothering them in its vast embrace.

Government is beseeched from every side to dole out more of its apparently inexhaustible store of goodies to deserving and hungry individuals, blocs, states and regions.

No one ever thinks of spending his own money without finding out first if Big Government can be clipped, sapped, bled, or bamboozled out of a free spender's share of the cost.

Nothing is too much for Big Government; that has become the credo.

Its trustees must acquit themselves of their trusteeship by never being niggardly, or even prudent. Whether they are sending American wealth overseas to help the less fortunate, or whether they are helping themselves, they scoop it up by the bucketful, to prove that Uncle Sam goes first class all the way.

THERE HAS BEEN such a fantastic disassociation of cause and effect that taxpayers groaning under confiscatory tax rates are demanding an extra million or two for their project; they don't see any connection.

The connection is there. A few Harry Hopefuls think a $100 billion budget may bring the dawn, but it won't. Big Government will keep on getting bigger.

It can't level off until the American people quit thinking it can spend money for everything under the sun, up to and including $55 billion a year for every weapon of defense anyone manages to sell to the military.

There's no sign of that.

Good Choice

Gov. James A. Rhodes' selection of Atty. J. Warren Bettis of Salineville as a member of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission is expected to receive state senate confirmation today as well as public approval.

Bettis, young and energetic, already has demonstrated capable leadership and integrity in such previously-held positions as president of the Columbiana County Board of Education, assistant prosecutor for three years and state representative during the last two years when our county was permitted an extra representative because of a periodic population adjustment.

Warren Bettis will add stature and wisdom to the important Public Utilities Commission.

Safety -- Always

We need only to be reminded by the 1962 report of Dr. William Kolozsi, Columbiana County coroner, that fatal accidents aren't confined to the highways. Vehicular traffic claims its all-too-sorrowful share of human life, but of the 45 deaths listed as "accidental" by the coroner, 19 occurred in falls in and around the home and in factory mishaps.

Safety is something that we have to live 24 hours a day, wherever we are.

Buying on the installment plan always makes the years seem longer and the months seem shorter.

There Will Be No Switchover

If we could believe in world calendar reform we could believe the United States might adopt the metric system, as proposed by one of the new bills introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives.

But being unable to believe in calendar reform, we cannot believe this country will ever decide to make the switchover to a logical system of weights and measures.

The British are studying the possibility of doing this and it might appear that if a country with an illogical currency and a weights and measures system quainter than our own can think of conversion it is not unthinkable here. But there is a special motive for British interest in conversion.

The European Economic Community uses the metric system. It also uses a logical system of money valuation. If the United Kingdom integrates itself with EEC it must have a currency that can be understood and weights and measures that can be calculated.

A switchover in the United Kingdom is useful to equation.

A switchover in the United States is out of the question.

What might happen here is a gradual adoption of metric weights and measures that would have the effect of a switchover eventually but would spare the country the agony of a spot decision.

This might even be the ultimate disposition of calendar reform, which is logical but cuts across the grain of religionists, traditionalists and people who insist on saying what was good enough for grandpa, forgetting that grandpa didn't like it and said so.

They say people of the future will speak several languages and be at home in many countries. Is it too much to believe they will be equally at home with quarters and liters, pecks and hectoliters—and with old calendars and new calendars?

Don't Bet On Tax Reform

The place to start thinking about tax reform on a national scale is an estimate by experts that federal income taxes could be dropped to 10 per cent or less if the revenue were collected across the board.

The U.S. Treasury would have money running out the window if it hadn't been forced into the practice of exemptions, exceptions, variable rates, special categories, deductions and special rules.

Every time it made a new category, the motive was the same: Someone was taking out after the other fellow while trying to save the hide of some special favorite.

This is why the odds stand high against tax reform—tax reduction yes, tax reform no. Every reform is an affront to some policy or practice that has persisted because it punished or rewarded someone.

When critics say the federal tax structure is tottering because it was piled up crazily in the first place, they mean taxes were put into effect by politicians, not by revenue experts. Any revenue expert who would approve a hodge-podge while the federal tax structure would be ordered to turn in his cupful of sharpened pencils and his adding machine.

Congress will eye President Kennedy's proposals to cut taxes with favor; so will the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, AFL-CIO—everybody. But when the news leaks out that Mr. Kennedy wants tax reform to go with tax cuts there will be a roar of anguish from coast to coast and Canada to the Gulf.

Tax reform means either the other guy is going to get what's coming to him, or you are going to get what you don't deserve. In either case, a great injustice is about to be done, either to you or to him.

Don't bet on tax reform in 1963. And if tax cuts are tied to reforms, don't bet on the cuts either.

JFK's Tax Cut Proposal Based On '54 Reactions

President Kennedy's belief that tax cuts now will mean "tens of billions of dollars more each year in production, profits, wages and public revenues," is based on what happened after the last big tax reduction in 1954.

That was a $7.4 billion cut. Five billion dollars of it came from expiration of Korean War taxes. It repealed excess profits and some excise taxes. It introduced a 10 per cent cut in individual income taxes right across the board. It also adjusted depreciation schedules and introduced dividend credits benefiting business $2.4 billion a year. With reported at $30 billion for fiscal 1953, the 10 per cent tax cut was $3 billion.

Total tax receipts of $64.7 billion in fiscal 1953 dropped a little to $64.4 in 1954, the year the cut was made. This was followed by a sharp drop to $60.2 billion in 1955, but that was caused by the post-Korean War recession from July 1953 to May 1954.

THERE WAS A rapid build-up after that. Gross national product of $365 billion in 1953 dropped $2 billion in the 1954 recession, but rose to $397 billion in 1955 and $419 billion in 1956—a 15 per cent rise for the two years. Tax receipts for 1956 rose to $67.9 billion.

Corporate profits, which were $38 billion in 1953 and dropped to $34 billion during the 1954 recession, rose by nearly $11 billion to $44.9 billion in 1955.

The unemployment rate, 5.6 per cent, or 3.6 million out of a labor force of 54.5 million in 1954, dropped to a rate of 4.2 per cent, or 3.8 million out of a labor force of 67.5 million in 1956. The only two postwar years that the United States has had relatively full employment were 1955 and 1956.

Whether the 1954 tax cut can be questionable, for the good effects given credit for all of this is didn't last. There was a further recession in 1958-59 and a further setback, or at least slow growth, beginning in 1960 and continuing even now.

THE KENNEDY administration bases its present case on the theory that a tax cut now is what's needed to boost the economy. A tax cut is expected to have a much greater impact now than in 1954, because of economic growth in the last 10 years.

Gross national product of $554 billion for 1962 is 65 per cent higher than in 1953. Personal income tax payments of $45.7 billion in 1962 are 50 per cent higher than in 1953.

So the equivalent of a 10 per cent tax cut now would mean that $4.5 to $5 billion more would be made available for consumer spending during the first year the cut is in full effect.

There is, of course, a delayed reaction to any shot in the arm the economy receives from a tax cut. Tax experts figure that 93 per cent of consumer income after taxes is spent, 7 per cent going into savings. But experience shows that even where there is a sharp rise in purchasing power, there's always a lag in actual spending. The length of the lag cannot be predicted.

IT MAY TAKE half a year or more after the tax cut is in change measurably. This makes it difficult to predict when there will be business expansion to take care of the expected increase in demand.

Businesses that figure they will get a certain per cent of the increased spending power generated by a tax cut may start to build up inventories fairly soon, but expanding plant capacity to meet the demand is even trickier for businessmen to figure.

An industry now operating at 80 per cent of capacity won't expand immediately. If now operating at high rate, an industry might expand plant capacity more rapidly.

President Kennedy's plan for making the tax cuts apply gradually over a three-year period is intended to limit the impact on the federal budget. If a first-year $6 billion tax reduction out of a total $10 billion planned tax cut is approved by Congress, that will be to stimulate business.

The increased tax receipts from this new business are then expected "to pay for" the remaining $4 billion in tax cuts, without increasing budget deficits after the first year.

History Today

Today is Monday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 1963. There are 344 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1947, the World War II Army chief of staff, Gen. George Marshall, became U.S. secretary of state. Marshall replaced former U.S. Supreme Court Justice James Byrnes who resigned for reasons of health.

On this day: In 1781, Congress named Thomas Barclay of Pennsylvania as vice consul, making him the first consular officer detailed for duty in the Department of Foreign Affairs, now the State Department.

In 1863, Union Gen. Fitz-John Porter was cashiered and dismissed for disobeying orders at the Second Battle of Bull Run. The charges subsequently were proved unfounded and he was reinstated in 1866.

In 1927, the U.S. government dispatched warships to Chinese ports to evacuate Americans.

In 1954, the world's first atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, was launched at Groton, Conn.

In 1956, Indian Prime Minister Nehru's leadership was tested by rioting in Bombay.

Today's birthdays: Television personality Jinx Falkenberg is 43. National Open golf champion Jack Nicklaus is 23.

Thought for today: No race can prosper till it learns that there is as much dignity in tilling a field as in writing a poem—Booker T. Washington.

A Look At Labor Relations

Prospects for fewer strikes with fewer man-days of idleness in 1963 than in 1962 do not appear too good.

At least 94 major labor contracts for bargaining units of 5,000 workers or more are due to expire in late spring and early summer. They affect a total of 1.2 million workers.

Reopening of wage contracts for off-train railroad employees and basic steel industry workers can be requested in May. They affect a total of 900,000 workers. The other 300,000 workers under contracts that may be reopened this year are in the rubber, telephone and electrical equipment industries.

WHILE THE 1,250,000 workers affected by the preliminary Bureau of Labor Statistics estimate of 3,550 strikes starting in 1962 was the lowest number since the end of World War II, the number of work stoppages and the 19 million man-days of idleness they caused were higher than the year before, though below the levels of most postwar years.

The 1961 record was 3,367 strikes, causing 1,450,000 worker 16.3 million man-days idleness.

For the average worker on strike the loss of employment caused by strike was 15 days in 1962, 11 days in 1961.

Of the 16 major strikes last year, each affecting more than 10,000 workers, seven were in metropolitan area construction industries. Others were in the eastern garment industry Lockheed Aircraft, Eastern Airlines, Allis-Chalmers, Chicago and North Western Ry.

The New York City area had more labor difficulty than any other part of the country with major strikes settled for garment workers, schoolteachers, electrical telephone and construction workers. The New York newspaper and longshoremen strikes, starting in 1962, carry over into 1963.

WHAT SEEMS to be happening, according to labor analysts, is the major strike settlements made under Secretary of Labor James H. Mitchell during the Eisenhower administration and under former Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg in the Kennedy administration are now expiring. Renewal of these contracts under changed conditions is now the headache of Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

The important difference is that most of the settlements in the Mitchell and Goldberg eras were straight economic agreements in which wages, fringe benefits and working conditions were the principal issues.

But the No. 1 strike issue in the closing months of 1962, continuing into 1963, is job security. Labor union officials are becoming increasingly concerned by what is happening to workers who lose their jobs through automation — technological advances which tend to reduce employment.

This is the big issue of "feather-bedding" in the still-unsettled dispute between the railroads and their on-train employees. It will also be the big issue in the contract negotiations for off-train employees which comes to a head next May and June. A complete tie-up of all railroad services is a possibility that must be seriously considered.

Job security will also be a major consideration in the May contract reopening for 350,000 steel workers and the June negotiations for 25,000 aluminum workers.

SOME FURTHER wage increases negotiated under existing contracts will automatically go into effect this year. They will go to 3.3 million workers—1.8 million in manufacturing (mainly auto and farm equipment industries), 600,000 in construction and 900,000 in nonmanufacturing—mainly trucking and retail trade. The automatic wage increases range from six and seven cents an hour in manufacturing to 10 to 15 and 20 cents an hour in the building trades.

These are considered stabilizing influences in what may otherwise be a year of troubled labor relations, heightened by a possible move for revision of labor legislation in the new Congress.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

can't afford the publicity?

Since you frequently boast that you print all shades of opinions I'd like to see you print this.—SEEN IT ALL.

Dear Seen: Having a baby out of wedlock is a tough way to make money. This maneuver (extreme, you must agree) is not a favorite of the experienced tramp. Only a young and stupid girl would try it. Incidentally, Bub, vacation or not, every word that appears in this column is written by me. When I do take a vacation the work is done before I leave.

Woman's Prerogative

Dear Ann: I'm a widow 50 years of age who is dating a fine man whose wife died in 1959. He has three children under 15.

The man has asked me to marry him and I have said yes. I'm not sure now that I can go through with it. The deceased woman's clothes are hanging in the closet. Her personal belongings are still in the dresser drawers. The furniture is exactly as she left it. There are pictures of her in every room.

I love the man and want to marry him but will I feel as if I am living with a ghost? I hesitate to express my feelings for fear of appearing disrespectful to her memory. Please, help.—KATHERINE.

Dear Katherine: No second wife should move into a home under the conditions you describe. Have a frank talk with your clergyman and ask him to speak to your fiancé.

Of course you should leave the furniture as it is (for a while) but the clothing and pet, wife should be disposed of before you move in.

Borrowed Finery

Dear Ann: This problem concerns a close friend of mine. I like her a great deal but she has one fault which is irritating. She asks to borrow my clothes.

I don't care how careful a person is, it's impossible to return a dress or a pair of shoes in exactly the same condition. A seam goes here, a little spot shows up there, a bead comes off—something is bound to happen.

For years this woman has asked to borrow everything I own, from an evening coat to my new wig. Never once have I borrowed anything from her.

Last night did it. My husband and I went to a dinner party. A half-tipsy woman came up to me and said, "Now wasn't that big-hearted of Verna to let you wear her dress?" I said nothing but believe me I was boiling.

What excuse can I use to refuse her after all these years, without making an enemy? —PIGEON.

Dear Pigeon: You don't need an excuse. Just tell her you've decided to stop lending your clothes. If she wishes to put a period to the friendship because she can no longer use you then you haven't lost much.

Marriage for Cousins

Dear Ann: My first cousin and I are both in our early 50s. Neither of us has ever been married. We are mature and sensible people who feel that a relationship based on mutual respect and admiration could be a lasting and rewarding one. We've always been fond of each other.

Will you speculate as to how a marriage of this kind would be accepted by our family and friends? Would they think it strange? Do you feel it would work out? Thank you.—COUSINS.

Dear Cousins: Some states will not permit first cousins to marry. Check and determine if this is true in your state. If it is, then go to a state where you may be married.

I see no reason why you should give a hoot how this would be accepted by your friends. If they are good friends they will be delighted.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Connie Griffith Bride Of Richard B. Hitchcock

At a candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, her birthday anniversary, Miss Connie Louise Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert B. Griffith of Damascus, became the bride of Richard Banks Hitchcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Hitchcock of W. Maryland Ave., Sebring, in the sanctuary of the Damascus Friends Church.

Rev. Edward Escolme officiated at the double ring service before an altar decorated with vases of red and white flowers backed with palms. Floral arrangements featuring lighted white candles, and twin seven-branched candelabra completed the setting.

Traditional wedding selections were sung by Herbert Mercer, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mrs. William Mercer presided at the organ.

White satin bows marked the wedding aisle down which the bride was escorted by her father.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over net and tulle. The molded bodice featured a jeweled portrait neckline and long fitted sleeves. Tiers of accordion-pleated net accented the back of the bouffant skirt.

A Swedish crown of sequins held her fingertip length veil of imported illusion, and her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white carnations and red roses. She wore the traditional, "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Mercury Dips to -30 In Northern Sections

Bitter Cold, Snow
Belt Parts of U.S.

By The Associated Press
Winter's brand of rough weather — numbing cold, snow and freezing rain — extended across vast sections of the nation today, a repeat of last week's miserable climatic conditions.

Frigid weather held tight across the nation's midsection. Temperatures dropped to more than 30 degrees below zero in northern areas. It was near zero southward into sections of Kentucky and eastward to the Ohio Valley.

Freezing weather extended into Texas, with warnings of a hard freeze in southern sections and through the lower Mississippi Valley into parts of Alabama and Georgia. The cold weather threatened citrus groves in the semi-tropical lower Rio Grande Valley.

Southern California again braced for more freezing weather—the ninth straight day of a cold wave that has caused more than $3 million damage to citrus, vegetable and flower crops. The mercury dropped to 41 in Los Angeles Sunday but freezing readings—as low as 12—chilled outlying areas.

A-Tests

and their hands were now untied "to engage closely in other urgent international matters."

While the Soviet leader thus linked his conciliatory move on nuclear testing to the U.S.-Soviet agreement on Cuba, officials here believe there is a strong possibility that Khrushchev is reconsidering his relations with the West in the light of his split with Communist China. If this is so, it could mean that he is entirely serious about putting an end to nuclear tests and would be prepared to make additional concessions.

At the United Nations, diplomats saw encouraging progress in Khrushchev's move, and in Britain a Foreign Office spokesman said: "This is obviously an important development, since in particular it accepts the principle of on-site inspection. But, as President Kennedy's answer shows, there are many problems still to be solved."

The reason Khrushchev offered Kennedy for his policy reversal was that he understood that Kennedy could not persuade the U.S. Senate to ratify a test ban treaty unless there was some provision for on-site inspections.

"If this is the only difficulty on the way to agreement," he wrote, "then for the noble and humane goal of ceasing nuclear weapon tests we are ready to meet you half way in this question."

Kennedy replied that the right of inspection at some of the sites where a sneak nuclear test might have been held is essential not only because of congressional concern but because of the need to have "a reliable agreement."

Khrushchev said his deputy foreign minister, Vasily V. Kuznetsov, was told by U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean last October that the U.S. government would consider two to four on-site inspections a year to be sufficient.

Kennedy replied that Dean actually had said the United States would require eight to 10 inspections, which was a reduction from the 12 to 20 previously demanded by the United States. Kennedy made clear that the total Khrushchev offered was not enough.

A wind-lashed snowstorm off Lake Erie battered broad areas of western New York State Sunday night. Wind gusts up to 50 m.p.h. whipped the snow into blinding clouds, causing heavy drifting and cutting visibility to zero.

Nearly all traffic on more than 100 miles of the New York Thruway was halted for several hours but later some traffic was permitted between Rochester and Buffalo. The storm closed many roads throughout the area.

Freezing drizzle slicked highways in Houston and San Antonio, Tex. A glaze of ice covered sections of northern Alabama. Rain changed to sleet or snow over much of Louisiana and Mississippi, creating hazardous driving conditions.

More snow fell in the snow-covered sections of the Midwest and into the Ohio Valley and sections of Pennsylvania.

At least 15 weather-related deaths were reported—from exposure, fires, and traffic accidents on icy and snow-covered highways.

Tornado winds lashed across more than a dozen counties in south Georgia, causing thousands of dollars damage to property. The violent winds and rain struck in Perry and adjacent areas before heading out to sea near Savannah on the Atlantic Coast.

Severe windstorms, also described as possible tornadoes, touched down at Loxley and Enterprise in southern Alabama, causing damage to homes and a nursery estimated at $150,000 to $200,000.

and the one ahead, operated by Anthony F. Marko, 37, of Louisville, had stopped to permit an unidentified motorist to make a left turn when Gilbert rammed into the Cole car. Gilbert was cited for failure to stop within the assured clear distance.

A wheel disengaged from a large truck operated by Curtis E. Sarchet, 27, of 212 James St., Columbiana, striking a car driven by Kenneth W. Mahler, 17, of Columbiana resulting in some damage to the auto, Saturday at 5 p.m. on Alternate Route 14, just one mile east of Washingtonville.

An auto driven by Marilyn L. Stilwell, 23, of RD 1, North Lima, sideswiped a car operated by Clarence Crier Jr., 35, of RD 2, Columbiana, Saturday at 2:25 p.m. on Township Road 902, about one-half mile south of Route 558. Mrs. Stilwell was cited for speeding.

Two East Liverpool youths escaped injury Saturday at 12:15 a.m. on Route 30, about one mile north of their city, when one car slid sideways into the other while passing.

Richard L. Whittington, 16, was cited for speed excessive for conditions, after his car struck one driven by Rickey G. Hoppel, 18, of RD 3, East Liverpool.

George L. Dimmock, 51, of Parma was traveling south on Route 45 Saturday at 8:10 p.m. when his car careened off the right side of the road and struck a pile of logs piled on an embankment about two miles south of Salem. Dimmock was cited for failure to transfer registration.

JFK

dropped to 22 per cent, but the 52 per cent over-all rate would be retained for 1963.

Thus companies with small earnings would benefit quickly. As if in direct response to congressional critics who challenged his plan for a $10-billion net tax reduction in the face of a deficit-laden $98.8-billion budget, Kennedy stressed the need to put idle men, mines and factories back to work.

The anticipated deficit would be roughly three-fourths as big as is now anticipated even if taxes were not reduced, Kennedy said, because a slack economy is not producing enough taxable income and profits.

An effort to cut the deficit by drastic curtailment of spending would be "self-defeating," he said; it would not only endanger the national security but would depress demand, production and employment so that revenues would fall "and leave the government budget still in deficit."

The President did not renew his request for standby antirecession powers, made in his economic message last year and rejected by Congress. But he gave notice that, when this session's major tax overhaul is finished, he will push again for the standby powers to cut taxes temporarily, and speed up public works spending, at the onset of a recession.

the present heating system.

The resolution stated the group, in drawing up the paper, kept in mind the current problems facing the board and school administration, including financial worries, need for additional classrooms, present facilities or construction of new facilities.

School administrators have issued a new report on the proposed acquisition, stating the renovation would cost about $5,000 to put the structure in shape for the intended uses. These uses include site for administrative offices, central storage, maintenance headquarters, curriculum center, reading laboratory, audiovisual center, pupil personnel services and other facilities.

Supt. Paul A. Smith says painting would cost about $1,000, the addition of partitions, storage shelves and bins, about $3,000, and minor changes in lighting and facilities, $1,000. He further estimates the annual heating bill would run less than $350 and the monthly electric bill, considerably under $120.

Tshombe, U.N.
Troops Enter
Kolwezi Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—United Nations troops entered Kolwezi, the last stronghold of secessionist Katanga forces, this morning, the Belgian radio reported.

Quoting U.N. sources in Leopoldville, the broadcast said all mining installations in the key industrial center were undamaged. The report said the first U.N. troops entered Kolwezi at 11:30 a.m.

Moise Tshombe, Katanga President, had agreed to meet the arriving Indian U.N. troops and lead them into the town in buses.

The Belgian radio report did not say whether Tshombe led the U.N. troops.

There was some concern that a last-minute hitch might hold up the takeover, but U.N. officials were hopeful that the occupation of the town could be completed by Tuesday.

Most of the white soldiers in Tshombe's forces were believed to have scattered from Kolwezi. The Katangan gendarmes there were reported disbanding and laying down their arms.

U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche said in New York that occupation of Kolwezi would lead to the rapid windup of the U.N. military operation that employs nearly 19,000 men. The operation has forced the United Nations nearly to bankruptcy.

Once Kolwezi is occupied, Bunche told U.S. chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson in a television interview—ABC-TV's "Adlai Stevenson Reports"—the United Nations will launch the "most massive technical assistance effort in human history" to turn the divided Congo into a sound, unified nation.

Secretary-General U Thant has appealed to the 110 U. N. members to contribute $8.6 million toward a $19-million Congo aid program. U.N. officials hope that the Soviet Union, France and other nations which refused to contribute funds for the military operation will help pay for the technical assistance program.

Casper Triumphs In Crosby Golf With 285 Score

Nicklaus Ties Player For 2nd Palmer Disqualified In Rules Mistake

By P. D. ELDRED
Associated Press Sports Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A superb wedge shot, almost as spectacular as the 140-yard eagle which won him the 1958 Crosby championship, brought victory again to quick-hitting Billy Casper and sent him away from Pebble Beach today $3,300 richer in Bing's famed $50,000 golf show.

The tremendous wedge recovery shot from 75 yards out on the treacherous 18th hole along Pebble Beach's rockbound coast, laid Billy's ball a foot from the pin for a vital par 5. As it turned out the shot put decisive pressure on husky U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus and the determined little South African, Gary Player.

Nicklaus found himself with a 30-foot putt to win at the 18th, missed it and slid six feet past the cup. Usually deadly accurate from that distance, Nicklaus missed the six-footer, took a bogey 6 and finished in a second-place tie with Player, who missed a 12-foot putt he needed to tie Casper.

In grabbing first honors with a final 2-over-74 for a four-round total of 285, Casper earned the distinction of being the first pro ever 72-hole route.

When the firing ended at the 18th, where Arnold Palmer capped a disastrous round by taking a horrible after shooting into Monterey Bay, there were five players tied at 286 for second place: Nicklaus, Player, Bob Rosburg, Dave Hill and Art Wall. It was worth $2,145 to each of them.

All-time money winner, Casper, who was announced as the world's greatest golfer at the start of the final round Sunday and promptly reminded the announcer that "you should have seen me Saturday," learned after the finish Sunday just how disastrous Saturday had been.

A technical misinterpretation of a ruling on the par 3 17th at Pebble Beach caused Palmer's disqualification from the tournament and four days of hard work for the exercise.

Greenford took a 13-12 lead at the end of the initial period, trailed 27-24 at intermission, then bounced back to take a 39-37 lead at the end of the third stanza. McDonald outscored the Bobcats 17-13 in the final frame.

Tom Hannon led McDonald with 15 points. Russ Siciliano chipped in 14; and Bill Ramsey had 13. Rick Arnold took scoring honors for Greenford with 18 markers. Dick Cook collected 16 and Dave Tye had 11.

Ohio State's Title Hopes Shattered By Iowa 81-74

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's three-time Big Ten champs, belted out of contention for the current crown at Iowa Saturday, fall back from conference play this week to regroup their shattered forces.

The favored Buckeyes built up a 15-point last-half edge over the eager Hawkeyes but couldn't withstand a late surge and fell 81-74. That dumped Ohio to 2-2 in the league, far behind 4-0 Illinois and into a fifth place tie with Michigan.

Creighton comes to town this Saturday as the Ohio State portion of a week's program whittled to almost nothing by mid-year exams. Only 11 tilts are slated up to Saturday's 20-game spurge, and only 10 of the 31 have a bearing on conference races.

Cincinnati, which broke a long-time jinx by beating Bradley on the Peoria hardwoods last week, gets no rest this week. The Bearcats—two-time NCAA kings and currently rated No. 1—face third-ranked Illinois at Chicago Saturday.

Ohio State was not the only big one of Buckeye land to fall last week. Akron was defeated for the first time in 13 starts when Ohio Wesleyan, held without a field goal for more than 10 minutes, roared back to upset the Zippers 57-55 on the Rubber City court.

That left Cincinnati (14-0) as the state's only unblemished team and Wittenberg as the lone Ohio Conference club with a clear record. The Springfielders lead the 15-team circuit with 8-0. Wesleyan is second with 9-1 and Akron's third with 8-1.

Ohio University, a week after zooming into the Mid-American loop's lead with a last-second win over Toledo, promptly lost two games to skid into fourth place. The Bobcats were belted 56-47 at Miami, and Western Michigan put the finishing touches on the Ohio U. downfall Saturday, 87-77.

Toledo and Western Michigan now lead the circuit with 3-1. Miami is 4-2, Ohio U. 3-2 and defending champion Bowling Green's fifth with 4-3.

The Bobcats face more trouble tonight as they play host to Loyola of Chicago, the country's second-ranked team. Loyola made it 16 in a row for the season by whomping Kent State 96-55 Saturday night. Mid-American games this week send Kent State to Ohio University and Western Michigan to Miami, both Saturday night.

Fireplace Troubles, Hazards Can Be Cured by Homeowner

A fireplace is attractive in any home. There's nothing quite so charming as a bright, cheery fire.

All too often the homeowner will neglect to use his fireplace. It may be that it once smoked him out of the house. Or the danger of sparks popping out on the rug or on clothing may be his big concern.

Most troubles and hazards of using a fireplace can be cured with little trouble.

Smoking Problem

If smoke is the trouble it may mean only that the damper has fallen shut. If that isn't the trouble see if the chimney needs cleaning.

If you decide to clean the chimney, be sure to cover the opening. Use a straw filled bag weighted with stones or chain and lowered and raised several times to clear out soot.

Very often the trouble is due to faulty fireplace design. The fireplace may be too big for the flue that has been provided. While you cannot easily increase the size of the flue, you can decrease the fireplace opening which will have the same effect.

The recommended ratio of flue to fireplace is generally about one to 12. But don't bother with measurements and slide rules. Next time you have a fire going experiment with boards, sliding one down from the top of the opening until the smoke seems to lessen.

Take Action

Once you've determined by how much you must decrease the opening, there are several methods of doing it. You can lay a course of bricks across the bottom. Or you can install a piece of sheet metal across the top. There are fireplace hoods which are decorative as well as useful for this purpose.

The chimney may not be high enough—it should be higher than the roof ridge. Increasing the height of the chimney is needed in this case.

Gusts of wind often create downdraft problems. A chimney cap will prevent these.

Some flues are built straight up and down and downdrafts will blow smoke right in your face. A smoke shelf exists in a good fireplace, a gentle sloping of the rear wall into the flue so that smoke coming back down the chimney will bounce off of it. You may need professional help for lack of this feature, but often a chimney cap will help.

Check Sparks

To prevent sparks from flying out of the fireplace, install screens. These are good looking, easy to handle and can prevent fires. Some can be placed in front of the fireplace. Others can be installed right in the opening.

Also available are screens made of fireproof glass with vents in the metal work at the base for draft control. The glass serves as a radiant heater when the fire is going.

TWO-STORY HOME is wonderfully planned for family enjoyment. There is a large living room, dining room and kitchen, plus a family room with fireplace and sliding glass doors out to a rear garden or patio. Four bedrooms, two baths and nine closets are upstairs. Architect is Fenick A. Vogel, Room 75, 117 W. 48th St., New York 36, N. Y. Homes for Americans Plan HA273V has 912 square feet on the lower floor and 1,048 square feet on the upper floor.

Program of Auto Touch-Up Checks Extensive Repairs

Ever have your car's scratched or rusted body worked on? Bet the bill ran pretty high.

Except for serious damage to the body, you can do most of the work yourself. Better yet is a regular program of touching up so that repairs need not be extensive. Once rust takes over, the work gets more difficult.

But new products — special paints that mach any make or model of car, special filler and rubbing compounds in small amounts will put all that minor body work in your range and professional looking, too.

THE REAL BOON TO amateurs has been the spray paint finishes put up in pressurized cans. With them you can avoid the tell-tale brush marks that never quite match the original finish.

Be sure to pick the paint made to match the finish of your car's year and make. These are stocked by most dealers carrying auto accessories.

Also available are small bottles of paint with a brush attached to the cap that can be used for tiny scratches.

BEFORE APPLYING ANY finish, remember that the surface must be absolutely clean. Remove all traces of wax or silicone polishes.

Sand off all rust. Carefully feather the edges so that there is a sharp line where the new finish overlaps the old. Use fine, not coarse sandpaper. Wet sanding is preferable to dry. Wash again after sanding is complete.

If you have sanded down to bare metal use a primer before applying a finish coat. Primer paint, generally gray, is available at auto accessories stores.

SPECIAL FILLERS ARE available in tubes. With this material you can fill small dents and gouges. Allow the filler to dry and sand smooth. Use primer paint before finishing.

Mask surrounding areas when using primer. Mask when spraying in finish paint as well when there is chrome or a different color finish nearby.

USE MASKING TAPE and newspaper. Tear a hole in the paper slightly larger than the area to be sprayed, so that touch-up area will blend with finish.

Follow manufacturer's instructions when using pressurized spray cans. It's a good idea to practice on some other surface first.

When the paint is thoroughly dry go over it with rubbing compound. This cuts down the gloss, helps it too match the old finish. If there is unwanted paint on surrounding areas this will remove it.

When you have finished, remember to protect the finish by polishing the surface you have been working on.

Use Heat Ducts For Inexpensive Hi-Fi Installation

For an inexpensive, whole-house hi-fi system, try using the heating ducts in your home.

It involves merely mounting a speaker on the warm air duct above the furnace and connecting the speaker to a hi-fi amplifier and record changer or tape machine, according to application engineers at American Furnace Company, St. Louis.

The sound then is "piped" throughout the house by the ductwork and registers. With two registers in a room, there is even a stereophonic effect.

American Furnace developed the idea as an aid to builders in selling homes and is not selling sound systems commercially, but the company's experimental installations indicate ductwork sound can be practical as a home hi-fi system.

Tests have shown that vibrations at the speaker are not transmitted. Shape of the ducts and placement of the speaker do not affect the sound. Nor is the fidelity affected by air motion, which means the system will perform well even when the furnace blower is operating.

ENTRANCE SCREEN

An attractive screen between entrance hall and living room can be made by installing 1x4 tongue- and-groove hemlock panel boards vertically in a frame of 2x4s. Nail a quarter round to hide the joint between panel boards and frame. Finish either clear to retain the hemlock's beautiful champagne coloring, or with a wipe-off paint.

Use Nuts and Bolts for Job They Were Designed To Do

You will have greater convenience and greater strength in wood joints that have been joined with nuts and bolts rather than screws or nails.

Such joints will stand up under heavier loads or greater strains. Should you wish to take an object apart the joints can be disassembled without damage to the wood.

One job you will have to undertake using bolts that you might not with screws or nails is the drilling of holes. (But even with screws and nails it's wise to drill pilot holes when going through hardwood.)

FOR WOOD YOU WILL use either a carriage bolt or a machine bolt. Machine screws and stove bolts are for use in metal & general fastening. Machine screws are often used without nuts, with the hole being threaded instead. Stove bolts are smaller than carriage bolts, have slotted heads for screwdriver tightening and take a square nut.

CARRIAGE BOLTS HAVE oval heads. The shank below the head is square for a very short distance. This keeps the head from turning in the wood as the bolt is tightened. Carriage bolts range in diameter 3-16 inch to 3/4 inch and in length from 3-4 inch to 20 inches.

Machine bolts have square heads, making them easy to hold with a wrench. Their diameters range from 3-16 inch to 1 1/4 inches and in length from 3/4 inch to 39 inches.

There are special bolts for special jobs. A stud bolt is threaded at each end, or along its entire length and it is tightened with a nut at each end. Threaded steel rods can be had in a variety of sizes and can be cut to length with a hack saw.

There are also U-bolts and eye bolts that can be used on special jobs. A hook bolt is used to anchor a framing plate to a foundation. The hook end is put in place and concrete poured around it. The threaded end is then left sticking up. The hook prevents the bolt from coming loose when the nut is tightened down.

DON'T OVERTIGHTEN A bolt and nut. Making the nut too tight will strip the threads. Tighten until it's snug, then give it another quarter turn.

Lock washers will assure a tight nut and bolt even though there may be tension or vibration. If you have trouble tightening a nut and bolt, use some light machine oil on the threads. Difficulty in loosening can be cured with penetrating oil.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: We have a large stereo console, made of what looks like mahogany wood, although it probably isn't. No matter how many times we wax it, the finish remains dull. Can you tell us how to restore the glossy finish?

ANSWER: This could be due to a number of things. It may be that there just isn't any glossy finish on the wood to restore. In that case, the wax will not automatically bring back the former high gloss, which probably was varnish or lacquer. Another possibility is that you have been applying the wax periodically for a long time without ever removing any of the old coats of wax.

Your best bet is to remove all the wax on the wood. Sometimes this can be done with turpentine, but more often it requires the use of a commercial wax remover.

When all the wax has been removed, apply a single coat of new wax and see whether you can buff it to a gloss. If not, the wood needs a new varnish or lacquer finish.

If you plan on a refinishing job, be sure to remove that new coat of wax you put on. After that, you'll have to decide whether to get right down to the bare wood and then refinish or apply a new coat on the old. In most cases, you'll get a better result by removing all the old finish and starting anew.

COORDINATES

To coordinate decor in an open plan family room - kitchen, use the same wood for family room built-ins as for kitchen cabinets. Shell beige west coast hemlock is particularly favored for such projects because of its fine appearance and durability.

Want Spacious Family Room? Start With New Furnace

Modernization of an old-fashioned heating system can be the key to a spacious new family room.

If your furnace is one of those gravity warm air monsters that seems to sprawl all over the basement, you can turn the waste space into usable living area by substituting a compact forced air system.

Today's gas, oil, and electric furnaces take only a fraction of the space once required for a central heating unit, point out the home service consultants of American Furnace Company, a leading manufacturer.

IN ADDITION, THE low-hanging pipes which used to keep you ducking every time you walked through the basement have given way to smaller, more efficient ductwork which can be installed close to the ceiling, leaving plenty of headroom for games, do-it-yourself workshop activities, and other leisure time enjoyment.

Actually, you kill two birds with one stone by modernizing an antiquated heating system. Besides freeing waste space for a family room, TV room, or home workshop, you also get the advantages of up-to-date automatic heat.

AND IT'S A GOLDEN opportunity for electronic air filtering at the same time, American Furnace experts note. These major advances in home comfort have moved within the budget of thousands of home owners in recent years and now can be installed easily and economically as part of your new forced air system.

Some Precautions Necessary During Power Interruption

There's hardly a bad storm that doesn't leave a number of darkened homes in its wake.

Power failures leave every homeowner feeling pretty helpless.

But there are a number of things you can do.

One precaution that should be taken always is the disconnecting of appliances that run continually — refrigerator, freezer and all other large appliances. When the power comes back on, all those items starting at once, could overload your circuits, causing fuse blowout or even fire.

Another reason for disconnecting procedure is when power is restored and comes back at only less than full voltage. Motors on appliances work harder attempting to make up for the lack of power. The result could be a burned out motor.

Keep a lamp plugged in. If the bulb glows dimly when the power is restored, you will know that you do not have full voltage.

The immediate problem in a power failure is darkness. Emergency supplies in every house should include at least two flashlights, spare dry cells and one or two lanterns for stationary light. These could be battery powered or kerosene or propane lanterns. Have a supply of large candles with suitable holders.

IF YOU HAVE A ELECTRIC stove, some spare means for cooking should be taken into account. There are a variety of small campstoves available — from folding metal stands that use canned heat to propane-fueled stoves.

You may also lack heat in a power failure since automatic controls and furnace blowers will stop working. Keep outside doors closed as much as possible. If you have a stove that is working, keep water boiling on it and keep that room closed off from the rest of the house.

TO KEEP FOOD FROM spoiling, avoid opening refrigerators and freezers. Food will remain safe in a freezer about 36 hours if the freezer is kept closed. Those items that you may be using frequently might be better stored on a porch or in a doorway if the weather is cold.

If you can get out to buy ice, get some and place in the freezer and refrigerator.

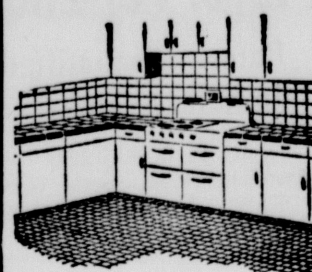

If the power is out because

$105,000 Grant

Given To OSU by

Ford Foundation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The

Ford Foundation in New York announced a $105,000 grant to Ohio

State University today to launch a program in which graduate students will serve as aides to the Ohio General Assembly.

The project, to be begun as soon as practicable, will run through 1967. It calls for up to six interns to work with agencies, offices or members of the legislature.

The interns will be assigned by Lauren A. Glosser, director of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission. The commission will provide half the cost of stipends for the interns. They will get $450 per month over a 10-month period annually.

Dr. Frederic Heimberger, Ohio

State vice president and dean of faculties, requested the foundation grant last November. He says the purpose of the program is "to provide opportunities for graduate students of Ohio colleges and universities to profit educationally from learning experiences resulting from day-to-day work with the General Assembly... its agencies or its members."

Ohio State will be responsible for administering the project and appointing the interns, but qualified graduate students may be selected from any college or university in the state.

A 10-member committee will advisive Ohio State on management of the endeavor. The committee will include five members from the university, at least two from other schools, Glosser and one member from each house of the Assembly. State Sen. C. Stanley

Mechem, commission chairman, has designated Sen. Charles W.

Whalen Jr. of Dayton and Rep.

Chalmers P. Wylie of Columbus

as the legislature's representatives on the committee.

Dr. Myron Hale of the Ohio

State political science faculty will serve part-time as coordinator of the program.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Keep Aspirins Away From Children

Aspirin is the most common cause of poisoning in children, and Dr. Roger Meyer has tried to determine the reason.

He was able in one year to find 128 cases of aspirin poisoning in children between 1 and 5 years of age in a large American city. More than half of these children had easily removed the "child proof" Dr. Brandstadt protective cap that has been devised to prevent such accidents.

In many instances the child was imitating "what mommy does when she doesn't feel good." Some of the children were either playing doctor or having a "tea party" and the aspirin tablets were shared with brothers or playmates.

Seventy-two of them took the pills in the hour just preceding their mealtime, a time when the child was beginning to get hungry and the mother was too busy preparing the meal to notice what was happening.

IT WAS FOUND that 43 of the children were recovering from an illness and were just beginning to get their appetites back. In many instances a visitor or telephone call had distracted the mother's attention from her child. In some cases the child had been left alone or left with a baby sitter.

Often the mother had taken an aspirin and had forgotten to put the bottle back in a safe place. Several mothers had failed to appreciate their child's ability to climb up to the medicine cabinet or bureau drawer.

In some cases, even when the mother discovered that the child had taken an unknown number of pills, she was not aware of the danger and had failed to call a doctor.

OF THE 128 children, 127 had been given aspirin at one time or another, often for the slightest indisposition. Frequently the mother, in order to get the child to accept the tablet, had referred to it as candy rather than as medicine.

Because of the pleasant flavors now used in most brands of children's aspirin the tots made heroic efforts to get at the bottle. Children who had been poisoned by aspirin, when offered the tablets at a later date showed no reluctance to accept them.

Thus it can be seen that accidental aspirin poisoning is not, strictly speaking, an accident, but rather the result of a slip-up of some kind. The child who is poisoned with aspirin may vomit, become dizzy, perspire profusely, become mentally confused, go into a coma and may even die.

DO NOT FALL INTO the trap of thinking that aspirin is a harmless drug.

Do not be fooled by the presence of the "safety cap" on the bottle. Do not leave aspirin tablets or any kind of tablets that contain aspirin as one of several ingredients where a child can get at them.

If you believe that, in spite of all precautions, your child has taken an unknown number of tablets call your doctor at once.
